City Council Cool Toward Discussion Of the Development of Parcels 1, 2

by Mary Lou Williamson

Attorney Edward Gibbs, representing the owners of Parcels 1 and 2, returned to city council on April 19, accompanied by land planner Leslie Smith, president of Ben Dyer. Gibbs expressed the desire of the owners to "initiate discussion with the city" on a compromise development plan for Parcels 1 and 2. Council had flatly turned down the owners' request for support for townhouse zoning (R-T) on January 18.

After talking with the owners and applicants, Gibbs related, he was now back seeking a compromise between the owners' desire for R-T and council's insistence on R-R (½-acre lots, detached housing). "We do feel very strongly . . . it is not in the ultimate best interest to develop totally in R-R. We don't feel there is sufficient market for that type (of housing)," said Gibbs. He suggested mixed uses at a higher density than R-R, especially for Parcel 2, just under 10 acres. Here the owners feel, he said, R-T still bears consideration and noted that the Maryland National-Capital Park and Planning Commission technical staff report agreed. The owners are open to any arrangement for discussion that would "arrive at some scheme mutually satisfactory," Gibbs said.

"Why don't you just withdraw the applications . . . (for rezoning)," responded councilman Tom White, setting the tone for the remainder of the discussion.

"We think the optimum would involve a mix of single family and some attached development," said Gibbs, trying to regain the initiative. He pointed out to council that two detached residential housing categories lie between the positions each side has staked out — R-80, with 3.4 units per acre and R-55 with 4.6 units per acre. If a plan is arrived at that is satisfactory to both the city and applicants, Gibbs repeated in response to White, "the existing applications could be amended. The applications would then be remanded to the technical staff for reconsideration."

Gibbs, in response to a question from councilman Gil Weidenfeld, acknowledged "we understand there is a demand for single-family housing in Greenbelt." However, he reiterated the belief that the "demand would not be there for half-acre lots." R-80 and R-55 would provide "more affordable homes," he suggested.

A Plan?

Did Gibbs have a plan, asked councilman Ed Putens. Gibbs said no. He had talked with the owners and "neither they nor I have set forth any land use scheme with densities. . . . While we would like to see a mix of uses including attached townhouses, we did not come here with any specific percentages in mind. We come with totally open minds."

"Council is a little bit concerned these applications have been around far too long," said Mayor Richard Castaldi. While recognizing council's inclination to tell the owners "single family or go away," Castaldi offered a starting point for discussion. Take the yield for 112 acres at R-R standards—that would be 224 units, he said, then look at a mix. Use clustering to lower development costs, reward the community with mandatory dedication of green space (most developers avoid this by paying an equal amount toward recreation facilities, which, Greenbelt

Flea Market to Benefit Cultural Arts Center Approved by Council

by Bill Rowland

The Greenbelt Cultural Arts Center is to be allowed to sponsor Flea Markets on an experimental basis in the Center Mall; and this year's Labor Day Festival will be located in the west parking lot. These were the two major decisions made by the city council during its regular meeting on May 3.

After a brief public hearing on the question of the Flea Markets, council adopted the proposals of the Cultural Arts Center as modified by the recommendations of City Manager James Giese. Initially, the Cultural Arts Center will be required to get a permit from the city for each market day. Vendors' tables will be allowed only on the center and rear Bowmanite (red brick) paved areas of the mall. Vendors will be required to observe the 20-minute parking limit on Centerway, and to keep their vehicles out of the Co-op grocery store parking lot and off the mall. The Cultural Arts Center will be responsible for cleanup of the mall at the end of each market day. Vendors will not be permitted to sell food products, with the exception of freshly baked goods.

Labor Day Festival

The Greenbelt Labor Day Festival Committee had asked city permission to move this annual event from the rear parking lot at Greenbelt Center to the west parking lot, between the Municipal Building and the swimming pool. In past years county inspectors had threatened to close the festival because noise levels were too high in relation to nearby residential structures. The committee wanted this year to avoid further difficulties with the county, as well as any problems of interference with post office vehicles that now use the rear parking lot.

After discussion with committee representatives and the city manager, council approved the move to the west parking lot, with certain general guidelines to be followed. These include allowing room for traffic flow to the medical offices, and emergency vehicle access to the Recreation Center. A suitable location for the bandstand was left unresolved, with the festival committee to use its judgment in making that decision.

Supplemental Police Aid

Council accepted a check for a little over $29,000 from Prince Georges County, representing the first annual payment of the city's share of a supplemental police grant made by the State of Maryland to the county. In 1981 the Maryland General Assembly passed a law requiring counties to share these yearly grants with the municipalities. Since then, the Prince Georges Municipal Association has been negotiating a distribution formula with the county. The formula agreed upon takes into account both city population and its expenditures for police protection. Greenbelt's acceptance of the check also meant that it accepted the formula.

Microwave Tower

Council decided not to object to a plan by NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center to erect a 200-foot-high microwave tower on its land. According to a draft project description from NASA, the tower would serve as a communications link between Goddard and the NASA headquarters in Washington, replacing increasingly costly commercial links. The microwave tower will relay Space Shuttle video signals to NASA headquarters, and will also relay video material from headquarters to all NASA centers via domestic satellite.

Although there was concern within the council about visibility of the proposed tower from some city residences, the feeling was one of doubt that the city could effectively block construction. Councilman Richard Pilski suggested, "Let's not object — we might want to annex them sometime."

Board Appointments

Council reappointed Nancy Neupert, Ron Ott, Wayne Spong, and John Veil for additional three-year terms on the city's Park and Recreation Advisory Board.

Advisory Boards Fail to Agree On Renaming Greenbelt Landmarks

by Virginia Beauchamp

Some strong views were expressed but no decision reached at a short public hearing on May 5 before the city's three advisory boards to consider proposals to rename Greenbelt landmarks after New Deal figures. Suggestions have ranged from commemorating Franklin D. Roosevelt by renaming the Lake Park in his honor, changing Southway's name to honor Rexford Guy Tugwell, to renaming the Center after Edward Filene, the department store magnate who put up the initial capital to found Greenbelt Consumer Services.

Hostile to any change was Joseph Karitas, Southway resident, who said he "didn't see the need to rename everything in Greenbelt." Most particularly he opposed changing the name of Southway Rd. Even though Al Herling, who initiated the move to honor Tugwell, had withdrawn his suggestion following intense criticism from Southway residents, Karitas said he had come to the meeting anyway to be sure the idea stayed dead.

On the other side of the question was Katherine Keene, who reported the approval of "many people" in renaming the Lake Park after Roosevelt. In particular the citizen committee which is preparing a commemorative for the President who was linked with the founding of Greenbelt, she said, expressed "strong sentiment." Roosevelt "actually went on the lake," Keene claimed, "in a boat of some kind."

Meeting chairman Al Cousins questioned whether just the lake or the lake and the park should be renamed; and although Keene felt "just the lake would do," both she and Rose Amberg felt that a new name for the park would be helpful to avoid confusion with the nearby national park. Toni Bram of APB suggested renaming the Lake Park for both Eleanor and Franklin Roosevelt.

With the possibility of honoring Tugwell by renaming Southway now laid to rest, Amberg suggested changing the name of the Youth Center, which is now as much a recreational facility for adults as for young people. But Bram objected. "Tugwell Recreation," she said.

GHI Neighborhood To Hold Clean - up

This Saturday, May 15, Greenbelt Homes, Inc., and its Aesthetics and Environment Committee are sponsoring a neighborhood spring cleanup throughout the GHI community — its yards, homes, common areas, roadsides, and adjoining woodlots.

The major aim of the project is to clean up GHI's common areas where members have been illegally dumping their own trash. Members may begin now to clean up those areas placing debris in a central spot accessible, or most nearly so, to city trucks for Saturday's special pickup. Items from wooded areas may also be brought to a central place for pickup Saturday.

Those members who plan to clean up their own yards are reminded that all items to be picked up by the city's special trash trucks must be kept in their own yards, at a point nearest to where the trucks will be loaded. Items should be bagged, boxed or bundled. Individual calls to the city's Public Works Dept., 474-8004, will be required as usual.

The sponsors are inviting GHI residents and civic organizations to take part in this effort. Those who would like special assignments or more information can call Joe Remenick on 474-7087.

Car Wash Sunday

The St. Hugh's eighth graders have been working to earn money for their class trip. They have organized a car wash, to take place on May 16, from 2 to 5 p.m. in St. Hugh's parking lot.

Let's Spruce Up Greenbelt!

The weather is beautiful, the trees are green again, and the city is full of blossoms. GHI homes sport new, bright siding to match. Isn't this just the week for the special spruce-up effort that GHI and the city are sponsoring? Court neighbors are asked to get together to clean up common areas and trash collections thus gathered are to be placed in an area accessible to city trucks. On Saturday the vehicles will be out to clear away the deposits.

The city's contribution to this project is in part educational, since some residents have not understood that trash piles should be kept away from the curbs, where their conspicuous presence blights the fresh spring beauty that the city otherwise projects.

Remember the invigorating experience of working together to dig out from that Washington's Birthday blizzard under a dazzling blue sky? Neighbors got to know each other; they really had fun. This seems like the sort of weather for a springtime version of neighbors cooperating. Let's all have fun again!

Pulmonary Rehabilitation

Prince Georges General Hospital and Medical Center is offering another session of its outpatient Pulmonary Rehabilitation Program. This program is designed for anyone suffering from chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (asthma, emphysema, bronchitis). Applications for the next session, which will begin May 17, are now being accepted. For more information or to register for the program, call 341-4980.

Tyler - Stratchko

Barbara Tyler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tyler of Glendale, Arizona, became the bride of David E. Stratchko, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene R. Stratchko, Greenhill Rd. on April 24 in the Sacred Heart Church, Bradenton, Florida.

The bride was attended by Paula Cherry of Bradenton. Gary Stratchko was best man. Jeffery Tyler and Michael Denney were ushers.

Following the double-ring ceremony a reception was held at the Carlton Arms clubhouse. The couple spent their honeymoon in Las Vegas. They will reside in Bradenton.

Nursing Home Week

The week of May 9 is National Nursing Home Week. During this week Nursing Homes all over America have a multitude of fun activities to celebrate.

Trash To Treasure

To the Editor:

Greenbelters are cleaning out storage spaces and attics during the conversion to electric heat. But what you are throwing in the trash heap could be a treasure for other people if you would phone the American Rescue Workers, 336-6200, and arrange for a pick-up date.

Your "trash" helps three ways: it is kept off the expensive land fills, it furnishes work for persons who need it badly just to live, and someone can buy at a low price a piece of furniture they need, some clothes to wear, a toy for the children, or a pretty picture or trinket.

American Rescue Workers give a home and meals to people down on their luck, give them work to accomplish, and have their own chapel or church for their spiritual welfare.

Their furniture repair and reupholstery department is their pride and joy. And they have trucks and men to do the hauling. If the clothes you give them are only rags, they can sell them for money to operate their Forestville complex.

You can save the City of Greenbelt some money by keeping repairable and reusable items off the trash heap, and that's some treasure in your own tax-paying pocket.

For small items for which you don't want a tax-deductible credit, you can put them in the container back of the co-op store. Phone during working hours for truck pickup at 336-6200.

A Concerned Citizen of Greenbelt

For a Safer Community

To the Editor:

It would be hard to find a more beautiful spot on this earth than Greenbelt in the Spring. One sad condition mars the enjoyment of a stroll through the paths and roads when one is confronted with loud barking of the dogs and the smelly piles of dog feces seen everywhere.

Through some requests for research on the subject of diseases, the Woman's Club has received some very frightening reports from various health services. The following, from the National Institutes of Health, Report of Human and Animal Diseases, lists some diseases and method of transmission: Amebiasis: from contaminated food and drinking water. Brucellosis (Undulant Fever): by contact. Dog Tapeworm: from swallowing fleas. Hydatid disease: from swallowing parasite eggs from dog feces (sand, dirt, ant and fly carriers, etc. and placing fingers in mouth). Leptospirosis: from urine (fly and ant carriers). Salmonella: from infected feces.

For a safer community for adults and children, dog and cat owners should obey the City Ordinance No. 709 and GHI's rules for pets.

The Woman's Club of Greenbelt Editors Note: The News Review regrets the errors in this letter when it appeared in the May 6 issue.

A Little Magic in Greenbelt

by Rema Boscov

"Avrey's Magic" is a triple scoop sundae with six toppings and green whipped cream. It's an imaginary romp into the world of play with fantastic sea creatures in colorful display, and a cast of humans in varied array with characteristics from sweet to sour guaranteed to leave a pleasant taste in your mouth and a smile on your face. There's even a message for you in it.

And that message is NOT that eating too much ice cream makes you sick. No Sir! Someone needed to remind us that people who play together stay together and that a smile is worth 1000 frowns. That someone is Anne Sanders, Hyattsville resident and author of the play being presented this month at the Greenbelt Cultural Arts Center. What an enormous undertaking the production of "Avrey's Magic" must have been. She could never have done it alone and she hasn't. Sanders and Al Herling wrote the music, Terri McMannama has done a superb job with the costume design, and directors Graceanne Adamo and Angela Schreiber have made sure the production flows as it should. It does.

Many of the players are children in fact and not just at heart. The lead children (Colin Mendenhall and Efrat Levi for the production I saw) give an excellent performance. What's this? Yes, there's a double cast to allow more community participation, a grand idea which also prevents the acting from becoming stale. Robert O'Malley, who plays the playful Cornelius, does just that—he presents PLAY with warmth and charm. And he has a good time doing it. Therein lies the real magic—in this case, the magic of the theater, not Avrey's. For when an actor enjoys his role he invites the audience to share in his delight. That fact, with slight modification, is also what this play is about.

In opposition to warm, friendly Corny is Sammy Crupper, ornery, mean, sour and snide. And there is Avrey, magic lord of the sea creatures, carefree but caring. Paradoxically, we have a human who acts like a monster and a monster who acts like a human. Guess who triumphs! Like a medieval allegory the monstrous human learns. Old Sammy, played by Jeff Beyrent in Snidely Whiplash fashion, remembers his childhood and is rewarded (with the help of Avrey's magic) with the biggest and most beautiful fish he's ever caught—which he

of course only shares with all those who have a mind to celebrate his renaissance. No allegory of rebirth would be complete without a benevolent, patient mother figure, in this case sensitively, strongly and warmly portrayed by Marie Tousignant. Sammy's conversion is a little out of proportion with his character buildup and we slide too quickly through climax and denouement, but in an allegory does that matter?

This is a happy production. People obviously had fun with it. Costumes and lighting are beautifully outlandish, with imagination given free rein. But the production isn't bedlam. It's put together for our enjoyment and is not merely a footloose romp through the footlights. Anne Sanders, however, is a better playwright than composer and while the play does lend itself to becoming a musical, the tunes currently employed keep reminding us that this is definitely an amateur production. But raucous chords and forgettable tunes do not a show kill. The efforts, energies and talents that went into this production are to be applauded and appreciated. Take your kids to see "Avrey's Magic" and (abracadabra) you'll come out smiling.

The Audit Committee reviews and evaluates all the operations of GHI, and determines the effectiveness of management in administering our affairs. It is the Ombudsman of the corporation, representing the membership at all times.

Lake Park Parking Permits

Greenbelt residents are reminded that permits may be obtained at the Greenbelt Police Department for use of the Permit Parking Area at the Greenbelt Lake Park. A nominal fee is charged for this annual permit. While it is expected that adequate spaces will be available to accommodate all permit holders under normal circumstances, spaces are available to permit holders on a first come, first served basis and on special occasions, all spaces might be occupied.

The permit parking area was established so the Greenbelt residents could drive to the Lake Park on busy weekends and have a parking space available. Public parking spaces are expected to be scarce, as parking is prohibited between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays along Crescent Road, Lastner Lane and Ivy Lane in the vicinity of the Lake Park.

tion Center" on county recreational rosters, she felt, would not indicate location, as is conveyed by the name 'Greenbelt Youth Center.'

Others suggested finding ways to honor these historic figures not by renaming but by naming for the first time various more recent municipal features. One such place cited was the 73 court Ridge playground overlooking the agricultural research farm. Another was the new ball field near the former landfill site. But Amberg objected that these were not significant enough and not part of the original plan for the city. The Lake Park was part of the Greenbelt plan itself, she emphasized.

Another idea was to rename the small park on Centerway after Tugwell. The "Tugwell War Memorial Park" was suggested by the Rev. Kenneth Buker.

Unable to resolve the various issues in one brief meeting, Cousins referred back to each of the boards separately consideration of the matter. Each board was charged with sending along its recommendations in writing to the city council.

The orchestra will present a Bon Voyage Concert before leaving for the International Music Festival in Vienna, Austria. The concert will be June 7 at 8 p.m. There will be an admission charge and all money will go to help finance the orchestra's trip. For more information call 345-7500 ex. 283.

Greenbelter Wins Race

Dave O'Keeffe of Lakeside Drive won the Potomac Valley Seniors 6-mile race in Greenbelt National Park on April 10 in the excellent time of 31:07. Over 100 runners were in this hilly run through the beautiful park in fine weather. In second was Jack Bickley of Washington, D.C. in 32:04. When returning to her home in the 9200 block of Edmonston Road on May 5 at about 2:30 a.m., a female resident was forced into a vehicle by two males and driven to the Berwyn Heights area. She was robbed and struck before she managed to escape and run to a house nearby where she called the police. The suspects were later pursued in a high-speed chase by the Prince Georges County Police into the Lakeside North area, where they abandoned the stolen car and escaped on foot. Sometime later, as a result of further investigation and a lookout, Sgt. James R. Craze detained a suspect in the Beltway Plaza area. The suspect, a resident of Washington, D.C., was identified by the victim and charged with kidnapping, robbery and assault.

Pfc. Daniel P. O'Neil was assaulted by a drunk and disorderly male resident in the Springhill Lake area. The man was arrested and charged with assault and battery on a police officer and disorderly conduct.

Pfc. Marr D. Sappington arrested a juvenile and recovered a stolen bike in the Beltway Plaza area.

Three daylight breaking and enterings occurred last week. A home on Laurel Hill Road was entered by way of a window on May 5. Jewelry was reported stolen. On May 6, an apartment on Edmonston Road was also entered by way of a window and cash was stolen. Cash was also reported missing from a home on Canning Terrace on May 6.

A shoplifting arrest was made at Marshall's in the Beltway Plaza.

All officers of the Greenbelt Police Department have completed required in-service training by finishing the Officer Survival Course conducted by Baltimore County Police Academy.

GHI Prepares to Sign More Rehab Contracts

by Mary Lou Williamson

With the priority Phase II contracts for heat and hot water conversion now underway, Greenbelt Homes management has been reviewing the remaining bids to be awarded. At the board meeting on April 22, management recommended moving ahead on several contracts whose original bid prices are being held by a 90-day bid bond. The bond was up on May 6.

The contracts approved by the board on April 22 were for windows from Peerless at a cost of $666,700 and for replacement basement doors from Acme at a cost of $94,790. (According to management, Peerless later rejected the contract its representative had negotiated with GHI and is no longer being considered.)

Contracts for (1) reroofing block homes, (2) insulation of crawl spaces and attics (masonry) and (3) water main replacement for frame homes were expected to be taken up at tonight's meeting of the board.

In addition, two contracts, on a time-and-materials basis, are being negotiated for masonry homes for (1) pointing and tuckering of masonry bricks only or blocks too and (2) structural repairs. One last contract will need to be negotiated, for painting of block homes. (No bid was received.)

Annual Meeting

Tuesday and Wednesday, May 25 and 26, have been set for the annual membership meeting and election. Up for grabs will be four positions on the board of directors, three positions for the Audit Committee and five for the Nominations and Elections Committee. The Ad Hoc Committee on Voting Procedures called for at last year's annual membership meeting is proposing a bylaw change: the election of the N&E Committee would be held during the first evening membership meeting. The election for board and Audit Committee would be restricted to the second day.

Spring Clean-up

Aesthetics and Environment Committee member Joe Remenick received easy board approval for funds, up to $200, to publicize a spring clean-up program aimed at members' yards and common areas. The city has agreed to help by providing special trash pickup on that day, Saturday, May 15. Remenick is chairman of the clean-up subcommittee.

Questionnaire

Results of a warranty compliance questionnaire sent out by management and covering those aspects of Phase I which have been completed indicate a low percentage of deficiencies in all but one category. Of the 1000 questionnaires sent out, 640 were completed and returned. The highest number of complaints were about windows. Of the 279 complaints, 181, or 18%, were verified as rehab deficiencies. For the most part, the problem was torn screens, caused by wind and pets.

(The remaining complaints were due to broken panes or latches caused by lack of members' familiarity with the new windows.) Under plumbing, the 9% of verified deficiencies concerned missing tile or drywall; under roofing, the 7% were for missing shingles; and under electrical, the 5% were for improper placement of bathroom receptacles. None of the few complaints received were verified under the categories of attic partitions or attic and wall insulation. About 20 structural repair complaints will be taken care of under Phase II.

Heat Conversion

Members whose homes are being converted from the old heating system to the new are facing a variety of problems and inconveniences. Two members appeared before the board to complain. GHI's system of notices, particularly the 24-hour notices prior to the start of work, occasionally fails. In one instance workmen tagged the wrong row of four houses. About 600 notices are put out each week, GHI president Jim Smith related. "Things do fall between the cracks occasionally," he admitted, but suggested members know the general schedule for their area and should "be looking for those notices" when workmen are nearby.

"This is a very complex job that needs to get done on schedule before cold weather."

Smith relayed his findings after talking with a random sample of those members whose homes are being worked on. Many were inconvenienced, but had expected to be and were "getting through it." Two things interested Smith particularly. One was the fact that each member contacted said something different when asked how things were going. The problems mentioned were minor and varied. The other was the human response to problems caused by a large project. "We don't like people trying to organize us," he said.

Another problem surfaced with a member who claimed to have notified GHI that he wanted his water heater in the basement. Management had no record of his request. The member later admitted his notice had been sent after the deadline (pre-conversion inspection) for such requests had passed. In such cases, when a member now changes his mind and wants the unit placed somewhere other than the standard location, he will be charged the extra cost of doing this work.

Remenick requested information on the safety of using insulating jackets on hot water heaters. Consumers Research, he said, had been concerned that the wires leading into the top of the heater were kept at too high a temperature when inside the thick insulation. Board member Steve Curtis responded to Remenick, saying the jacket can be cut away from these electrical wires.

Non-standard heating

Benjamin Abramowitz made a general appeal to the board to consider favorably the plans of individuals who ask for non-standard heating systems. "Give us a chance to be different," he said.

A member then requested permission to install a new oil burner and new electric hot water heater in his mother's unit on Garden-

way. However, he later requested the item tabled and said he would first talk with management.

The board was expecting a compromise proposal from the Dombrowski's (both of whom were present during the meeting) concerning their desire to install an electric hydronic boiler instead of baseboard heat in their unit. No request was made.

The board majority, however, continued to discourage any variance from the standard heating system, particularly now that the bids for the work have been awarded and work has begun.

In other actions, the board—— approved implementation of the member-directed decision to put the larger homes on the same contract basis as other GHI units as soon as possible. (GHI will sell its share of the equity to each unit's owner. Where necesis now able to sell its share of the equity to each unit's owner. Where necessary, GHI will help finance the purchase. Individual appraisals will be needed.)

— turned down a request from a member for an exemption from the standard cost formula for heating an addition.

— approved setting up a special checking account at Citizens Bank to handle energy rebate checks to members whose units have been converted to electric heat.

— approved the recommendation of the Finance Committee to prepare to solicit bids from auditing firms for a 1982 mid-year audit to include: (1) analysis of financial and accounting procedures, records and systems and recommendations for their improvement, (2) review plans for and assist in conversion to computer use and (3) prepare a procedures and operations manual for the Fiscal Department. (Wayne Williams voted no).

WHO IS G.H.I.

In one of the courts I visited while campaigning for the Board of Directors, a member told me that we don't own our homes. I asked, "Who does?" He answered, "GHI." I replied, "Who is GHI? Aren't we - the members - GHI."

If so, and if we are truly a cooperative, no one owns our homes more than we do - not management, not the board - WE OWN OUR HOMES COLLECTIVELY! Let's put ownership back into "mutual ownership." As a board member, I'll safeguard individual rights without compromising the community good.

generally argues, they would have to pay for anyhow), put in benefits for the community (walkway system) and build affordable housing, he explained. Then backing off somewhat, Castaldi said of his own suggestion, "I don't know if council would agree. I know it was difficult to get this item back on the agenda." He was referring to the fact that Gibbs' letter asking for a meeting was received by the city on February 2.

"I don't know a more desirable place to buy a house anywhere in Prince Georges County than Greenbelt," stated Weidenfeld, bringing the discussion back into focus. He commented on the current demand for quality commercial development, the excellent transportation (highway) system around Greenbelt and said demand for quality residential development is equally logical.

"A development of that nature would not require rezoning," remarked Gibbs, who then promised to confer with the owners and applicants and "get back with

"I don't think there's anything wrong with his last proposal," offered White. "Put down on paper, what (the owners) have in
